The Tenth Sunday of Ordinary Time

The readings for this Sunday show us both the alienation brought about by sin, and the merciful love and power of our Lord, who forgives, redeems and brings us to eternal glory. We hear of the story of Adam and Eve's sin of disobedience and unbelief, and how it separates them from God, from their home with God, and from one another. But St Paul tells us that, for those who believe in him, Jesus's rising from the dead becomes the way to eternal life with him, restoring the relationship of humankind with God. The Psalm is the plea for mercy of a sinner who knows he or she can rely on the Lord, who reveres the Lord for his forgiveness and love. In the Gospel we see that what Jesus says and does confounds the expectations of the people around him. He may also disconcert us. This week we pray to grasp, deep in our hearts, the love and forgiving mercy of God. We ask for openness, and a willingness to be surprised, as we seek to do all that God wants of us.

Think Vocation

We pray to the Lord that we may have priests and consecrated religious to show us the Lord's kindness.

Marriage Matters

Together in Christ: Blaming each other is easy when pressures and emotions are running high. We too can feel exposed and naked in our hurry to justify ourselves, just like Adam and Eve when they were 'in trouble'. Never forget the fact that God's grace is continually being poured upon us through our Sacrament of Marriage and the sacramental life of the Church.

Loneliness Connects Us Seminar

Loneliness is an issue of our time. Newspaper reports from earlier this year suggest we are facing a loneliness epidemic. According to a recent study by the Red Cross, more than nine million adults in the UK are often or always lonely. As we become older it can become harder to make friends or time and distance means we see people less.

But loneliness is not dictated to by age. Many of our younger people are living in a world defined by likes, shares and retweets. Recent studies have shown that those who spend a large proportion of time on Social Media are more likely to suffer from low esteem and anxiety. The platforms that were designed to connect, are now adding to feelings of isolation or provide pressure to conform or appear popular. The campaigning and advocacy of groups like the Jo Cox Commission is ensuring loneliness is finally being taken seriously. The Government have appointed a Minister for Loneliness; and there is a growing trend to highlight the issue in the media. We all feel lonely sometimes and it can affect us to varying degrees but it is important that we recognise when do feel lonely and look for the help and support that is out there.

Whether old or young, most people have a strong need to feel a sense of belonging and connection with like-minded others. Communities can provide a sense of identity and belonging, which protects people from feeling lonely or isolated in times of change. Having a hub of people with shared experiences, passions or culture, having a hub of people to connect with is good for our health and well-being.

The first step to end loneliness is to show we care. That is why along with Caritas we are supporting the Loneliness Connects Us Seminar, 23 June, at St Michael's Hall, Whitefield. The aim is to raise the awareness of loneliness, by participating and creating an environment where young and older people and professionals in health care, can share ideas and create projects to end Loneliness.

The Loneliness Connects Us project is youth co-research project, developed by MMU and 42nd Street, to bring the voice of young people into the growing conversation about youth loneliness and answer these questions.
